

NUMBER 84

ER AND J. R. ARMISTEAD.

SEMI-WEEKLY SOUTH KENTUCKIAN, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1885.

Governor-elect Foraker, of Ohio, has accepted an invitation to stump New York in behalf of the Republican State ticket.

Ohio has adopted a constitutional amendment changing the time for holding State elections from October to November.

The Grand Lodge of Good Templars, which met in Louisville last week, re-elected R. S. Chavis Grand Worthy Chief Templar for the third consecutive year.

Miss Annie Longfellow, youngest daughter of the late poet, was married in Boston Wednesday last, to Mr. James Gilbert Thorpe, of Eau Claire, Wis.

The President has approved a circular in regard to the establishment and maintenance of quarantine inspections along the northern frontier of the United States, to guard against small-pox infection from Canada.

This is the last week of the Louisville Exposition and those contemplating a visit to it have but a few days left. The railroads are all selling tickets at half-price and the attendance this week will probably be larger than any week since the great show opened.

Rutherford B. Hayes, the notorious poultry-raiser of Ohio, has been making a speech in Detroit. It is a great pity that this fellow can't realize that he is dead and that the public cares nothing for his utterances on any subject.

A call has been issued for a convention of colored citizens of Kentucky to meet at Lexington, Nov. 26. Delegates are to be chosen at mass-meetings to be held in the various counties, Nov. 19th.

The joint re-union of the Ex-Federal and Ex-Confederate soldiers at Owensboro this week promises to be a big success. It will be held from the 22nd to the 24th inclusive and all ex-soldiers are cordially invited to attend.

A young woman was tried for lunacy at Hartford last week because she persisted in sweeping the house constantly and trying to keep it scrupulously clean. The sensible jury acquitted her and they ought to have thrown in a chromo.

Henry W. Shaw, the "Josh Billings" of humorous literature, died in Monterey, Cal., Wednesday, of apoplexy. The body was embalmed and will be sent east for interment. Deceased was born in Massachusetts in 1818, but went west and became first a farmer and then an auctioneer at Poughkeepsie, N. Y. He first began writing for a New York paper over the nom de plume of "Josh Billings" and soon became widely known. By his writings and lectures he accumulated a handsome fortune.

The wicked editor of the Breckenridge News gives the girls away after this fashion:

A facetious exchange says the way to make a young lady sing is by pressing her. An intimate friend whom we have consulted says that in a long line of personal experience the only effect the pressing operation ever had on young ladies of his acquaintance was to lend their ears more attentively in the direction of the hall for any footsteps that might be heard there.

The latest postal law decision is to the effect that publishers of newspapers can, under the law, arrest any man for fraud who takes a paper and refuses to pay for it. Under this law it is a dangerous trick for a man to allow his subscription amount to run on from six months to a year and a half unpaid, and then tell the postmaster to mark it "refused," or send the editor a postal card to discontinue the paper.—Muhlenberg Echo.

A much more satisfactory and business-like plan would be for publishers to discontinue subscriptions when they expire and not attempt to force their patrons to take the paper whether they want it or not. The cash system is infinitely better for both publisher and subscriber and gives no opportunity for fraud on either side.

THE DEAD CARDINAL.

His Will Probated.

New York, Oct. 17.—The will of the late Cardinal McClosky was filed for probate this afternoon. The document is brief. He directs his executors to pay all his just debts and funeral and testamentary expenses immediately after his decease. He then bequeaths to Archbishop Corrigan, Bishop McLaughlin, of Brooklyn, and Bishop McMerick, of Albany, all the remainder of his estate, appointing them at the same time the executors of his will.

McClosky's Successor.

MONTRIAL, Oct. 17.—It is stated here that the vacancy in the College of Cardinal McClosky, will be filled by Archbishop Taschereau, of Quebec. When one of the Canadian bishops went to Rome some time ago, in connection with the matter of the division of the diocese of Three-Rivers, Cardinal Smeunet pledged him his word that in case of a vacancy occurring in the college he would use all possible means to have it filled by Archbishop Taschereau.

GREGORY-RIVES.

ED. SOUTH KENTUCKIAN: Andrew Jackson Gregory, the groom-elect, W. A. Glass, A. M. Henry, Wm. Rossington and R. W. Henry left Hopkinsville at 12:10 on Thursday, Oct. 15th, bound for Bennettstown, by way of Mr. W. V. Rives' farm. Each of these gentlemen was drawn by a couple of horses and wore a cigar in his mouth around which circled sweet smiles. Circumstances caused a five minutes stop on South Main, near the residence of Chas. Bush, Esq. A little boy looking on was stricken with fear and, rushing in-doors, told his mother that death had invaded Bush's house and a hearse and twenty men mourners were outside. One of Rossington's horses broke the narrative of his harness and one of Will Henry's ponies kicked up behind, while of Mr. Arthur Henry it might be truthfully said, "The wind blew through his whiskers." The party arrived at Esq. Ed. Moss' residence wherein dwells one of the greatest mashers in America. There lastly toilets were made before a mirror on only one side of which was a light. As a consequence the whole party moved further with one side of each face covered with chalk. Arriving at W. V. Rives', the ladies in waiting and the bride-elect were found. The couples paired off like doves in spring time, as follows:

A. M. Henry with Miss Anna Knight; Wm. Rossington with Miss Fanny Wootton; Wm. Glass with Miss Rebecca Adams; R. W. Henry with Miss M. P. Sherrill.

The bride, Miss Josephine Rives, and the groom, whose name has been previously given, also "paired off together," and information comes from Church Hill that they continue "paired." The ladies were discovered to be dressed in cream colored muslin with borders of white satin, all trimmed and flounced and furbered with lace. A decoration of natural flowers, the most beautiful of all ornaments, was worn by each. The gentlemen wore the traditional costumes of coat, pants and vest, with boots or shoes and hat, altogether making up a very tasty costume, and not lacking, to all appearance, in any of its parts. Miss Sherrill and her escort led the way thence to Bennettstown. Going to the church the bridal party noticed the tall and dignified form of Esq. Ed. Moss, outlined on the brow of a hill and gilded with a halo by the evening autumnal sun; and closer inspection revealed the fact that "The wind blew through his whiskers."

The church was beautifully decorated. Taste looked out from every curve of arch, or point of angle in the ornaments around. Although the sun had not yet retired to rest upon his royal couch all curtained by the western clouds, yet the house was darkened, the chandeliers lighted and a glow as twilight shed its shadowy witchery over the scene. A seraph sat at the organ and caused it to speak in vibration of celestial music, as the couples marched up the aisles. The bridal pair faced the audience at the foot of the altar and solemnly entered into an alliance ordained of God, recognized and encouraged by all civilized nations and elevated into a sacrament by the master. Rev. J. W. Bigham said the ceremony in an impressive and eloquent manner. His delivery was easy and flowing, his diction classic and terse.

A long drive carried the bridal party to the residence of Mrs. M. J. Gregory, where a pleasant evening was spent in conversation enlivened by wit and interspersed with music. An elegant supper was spread which so tempted one of the grooms-men that he had to return and pay further respects to it after an adjournment. The company dispersed about eleven o'clock, breathing benedictions upon the bride and groom and upon the old Gregory homestead, whose inmates are and have been among the best citizens of the Commonwealth.

SUPPLEMENTAL.

The ride from the ceremony to supper afforded an elegant opportunity for courting. Twilight dropped its curtains over the pilgrims and a star or two and a crescent gently whispered of love. Will anything come out of the ride? A. M. Henry's burnisides and Will Glass' monstache were the hirsute features of the occasion.

Mr. Anderson was to have waited in Mr. Rossington's place, but a painful accident prevented; he sent a worthy substitute for an attractive man.

The middle name of Miss Mary Pink Sherrill corresponded delightfully with the complexion of her bashful beau.

LOOKER-ON.

The Ohio Election.

Complete unofficial returns from all the counties in the State make the Republican majority on the State ticket 17,688.

The legislature is still in doubt and the official returns alone will settle its political complexion. Omitting Hamilton county, in which Cincinnati is located, the Republicans claim 56 members in the House and 17 in the Senate. Several districts are disputed by the Democrats. If the Republican claims are based on the true returns they have a majority of 2 on joint ballot outside of Hamilton county. In that county both parties are claiming 13 doubtful members. The Republicans concede one member out of the 14 to the Democrats. Both sides are still claiming the Legislature, but the chances are that the Republicans will have a majority on joint ballot, though the Democrats will have control of the Senate by a good majority.

Thirty-Four Divorces.

While the attention of the public is directed to the matrimonial epidemic which is just now sweeping over the country, it may not be amiss to note that all the nuptial knots tied do not hold till death. The Court records of Christian county show that 13 divorces were granted in March and 21 in September, making a total of 34 this year. Of these suits 19 were brought by wives and 15 by husbands. Only three of the former asked to be restored to their maiden names. The names of the parties who were released from the bonds of matrimony were published in our Court news at the time the decrees were granted. There are on an average about 300 marriages in Christian county every year and if in the unfeeling light of facts and figures we view these matches, we find that one out of every nine of them is "by man put asunder."

The I. A. & T. E. R.

From what we have been able to gather we believe we are justified in saying that a crisis has arrived in the history of this enterprise. Whether this be true or not, the road is just now obviously in great straits, and if our people want to secure and maintain control of it now is the time to make the effort. * * The Messrs. Gordon, we understand, are anxious to sell, and have been for sometime past negotiating with first one syndicate and then another in their efforts to rid themselves of what seems likely to prove to them a white elephant. * * Let our people take some step now toward securing the road before it is too late. If Clarksville gets it the advantages accruing will at once place her on the high road to prosperity. If she loses it she will receive a setback from which it is problematical whether or not she will recover.—Clarksville Democrat.

MARRIED.

CLARDY-DADE: At the residence of the bride's father, Randolph Dade, Esq., on the 15th inst., by Rev. W. L. Nourse, Mr. John F. Clardy to Miss Carrie V. Dade.

The South Kentuckian wishes Mr. Clardy and his happy bride a long life of uninterrupted happiness and prosperity.

GREGORY-RIVES: At the church at Bennetts town on the 15th inst., by Rev. J. W. Bigham, Mr. A. J. Gregory to Miss Jodelle R. Rives. The wedding was a very brilliant one and is described by a reporter in another column.

Our warmest congratulations and very best wishes attend the happy young couple as they begin together the journey of life.

CLARDY-DADE.

EDITOR SOUTH KENTUCKIAN:

It seems to a casual observer, that October is the most auspicious month of the year for marrying. From every part of the civilized globe interesting reports are circulating concerning the marriage of persons, who, on account of their wealth, intelligence, influence or position in society, it may be, have been instrumental in directing the attention of the public (and especially the business part of it) from the regular, and generally unpleasant routine of duties attending a busy life and a career of usefulness, to the more agreeable and the more inviting prospects of a marriage ceremony and the delightful enjoyments afforded at elegant receptions. And while from distant points the chime of the marriage bells has been brought to our ear by the press, clergy and wire, here in our own city and county the fragrance of the orange blossoms has recently regaled our social circles more than once since the beginning of this beautiful October month. Among other times and places, the Newstead neighborhood on Thursday afternoon, at the 15th inst., at 6:30 o'clock was the scene of a wedding between representatives of two of the best families of the county. On the afternoon of the above date and at the hour indicated, Mr. J. F. Clardy was united in marriage to Miss Carrie V. Dade. A number of closely connected relatives and a few friends, assembled at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Randolph Dade, and witnessed the ceremony which was pronounced by Rev. W. L. Nourse, the scholarly and eloquent pastor of the Southern Presbyterian church of this city. After his conclusion, they repaired to the handsome residence of the groom's father, Dr. J. D. Clardy, where they were joined by a large number of ladies and gentlemen who congratulated the newly married couple most heartily, and where a most elegant reception was tendered. It is useless to speak of Dr. Clardy's hospitality, for every resident of this county, and I dare say, of Southern Kentucky, who knows him at all, has either been the recipient of his courtesies or has partaken of the hospitality of his home, while his wife, a most agreeable and accomplished lady, is never without a word of welcome and is ever desirous of promoting the pleasure of those who are so fortunate as to be her guests. This occasion will long be remembered by those who were present. Outside of the agreeable company in which we were thrown, and the delightful music we heard, the supper to which we were invited at 10 o'clock was elegant, the tables being beautifully decorated and loaded with every delicacy of the season. The groom is an intelligent, temperate and industrious young farmer, and an honor to the social circle in which he moves. He is to be congratulated on winning for his bride a young lady of so much refinement, culture and beauty. Possessing a strong, practical mind, a pure heart and sweet, generous disposition, she is eminently fitted to be a true helpmate, one who will rejoice in his successes and assist him in his troubles. The young couple were the recipients of many handsome and costly presents.

Among these were a silver castor, Miss Fannie Clardy; berry bowl, Mr. Clem Clardy; set of silver spoons and set of silver knives, Mrs. A. F. Clardy; silver castor, Mrs. Thomas Green; satin, hand painted pin cushion, Miss Lizzie Owen; napkins, Mrs. Greenham and Mrs. Clardy; sewing machine, Dr. J. D. Clardy; set of furniture, Mrs. T. M. Green; sofa, Mrs. Bankhead Dado; silver forks, Mrs. A. F. Clardy; set of furniture from Dr. J. D. Clardy and Mrs. A. F. Clardy.

A clandestine Marriage.

The Courier-Journal of Friday gave the following account of the romantic marriage of the most bashful member of the Kentucky press:

"Hon. Robert Y. Thomas, Representative-elect of Muhlenberg county, Ky., and formerly the popular editor of the Central City (Ky.) Argus, has in store for his many friends in Muhlenberg county a great surprise. Miss Jessie Wallace, one of the belles of New Albany, was a visitor among relatives at Central City last summer. Mr. Thomas met her, and their acquaintance speedily ripened into love and an engagement. The gallant suit arranged with her that they should go to Springfield, Tenn., be quietly married, say nothing about it, she to return to her New Albany home and await his arrangements to come for her and take her with him to Greenville, Muhlenberg county, where they are to reside.

They left Central City on the morning of August 18, on pretense of going for the day to Dawson Springs, but they went instead to Springfield and were married. A few days later his bride left for her home. Mr. Thomas sold out his newspaper at Central City, and made arrangements for a residence at Greenville, and then started for New Albany and his wife. He arrived at that city yesterday evening. When he greeted his bride, her family were surprised at the familiarity and heartiness of the greetings between them. An explanation followed, and then congratulations were bestowed. Mr. Thomas will return to Kentucky immediately with his wife."

Incidentally burned the dwelling house of Mr. Patterson in Hardin county, in the owner's absence. Loss $5,000.
